What's new:

Fall from Grace is a historically based, family drama that follows the Turrells of Rock Springs and their most notable family members who provide medical care for the rough and tumble pioneers of the West. The film follows the story of a wife and mother who loses her son in a silver mine accident, and the events that follow the tragedy cause the family to question what the truth really is. The movie was filmed in Hamilton and Salt Lake City, Utah, near the Burr Trail. Plot Charles Turrell is a respected doctor in Rock Springs, Wyoming. He marries Catherine and they have two children, a son, Michael, and a daughter, Patricia. Michael is the star quarterback in his high school's football team, and makes a team trip to San Francisco to play the San Francisco City Premiership football team. Michael dies while running a tunnel-boring machine in the middle of the city through the Nob Hill tunnel and the city goes into national mourning. Michael is a popular and athletic boy, but he is also very naïve and doesn't think much of the dangers of what he is doing. Michael is disheveled and soiled with the toxic mud and dust from the bottom of the San Francisco sewers. The hairs on his head are singed by the flash from the explosion, which is seen on a news clip. Dust swirls around him as if beginning to revolve around the earth, faster and faster, until it begins to fill up a tunnel near him, dragging him out and closing the tunnel behind him. The authorities find him two days later, banged up, injured and of the mud and dirt of the sewers now in his system. After Michael has stepped into a recess in the tunnel and is found by his father, Michael has an odd reaction to being covered in the mud and dirt of the sewers. The grim reaper is on the fence about what to do next with the boy. He appears to give a foot up to each side to come over to him, but Michael shakes them off. The reaper decides to leave Michael alone and return to the mammy. Michael survives the operation and runs for home, but while running, the roof of the tunnel collapses on top of him as a man is driving on the road nearby. Michael dies of severe injuries later that day. At the funeral, Michael's pallbearers are members of the community, but the eulogies are all
