"Follow in the footsteps of Indiana Jones and other iconic explorers, gather hidden artifacts and solve ancient mysteries in this epic sci-fi RPG. Eternity Convergence is a story-driven game with a free-roaming environment and strategic combat. Play as either the heroes or villains of Eternity Convergence and follow the choices you make to determine the ending of the story." History Originally created on Unreal Engine 2.5. Engine was rewritten from the ground up when designing Eternity Convergence and it runs very well on the newest version of UE4, currently in development (and potentially ready for early access). But it's not complete and I can't understand the part "beware...". Any help would be appreciated. A) So, taking the integral along the real line, we have: $$\int_{-\infty}^\infty \frac{z}{e^z-1}\mathrm{d}z$$ So the solution says: $$\frac{i}{2}\ln{\frac{1}{1-i}}$$ As you can see, the first part is not a problem to solve (I have in the solution $\frac{1}{2}$ as a misprint.) But the part of the solution before "beware...": B) We have: $$\frac{i}{2}\int_{-\infty}^\infty \frac{1}{e^{z+i\pi}-1}\mathrm{d}z \tag{1}$$ Now, I don't understand why we take the residue here at $\operatorname{Re}(z)=\frac{\pi}{2}$. Shouldn't we take the residue at $\operatorname{Re}(z)=\frac{\pi}{2}+2k\pi$? (Or at $\operatorname

Trap Spells Magic From the Profound Enchanted Water Enchanted Water Item: Water Sphere Components: 2V, 3F, S Casting Time: 1 standard action Range: Self Target: You Duration: 1 minute A protective bubble of water springs into being around you, granting protection from some forms of damage, and extending a move action to you. Your AC improves by half your cleric level (round down), any Constitution bonus added by your faith deals double damage, you gain one additional standard action per round and your equipment doesn't take any damage. This spell has no area of effect, thus it cannot be dispelled by Destructive Wave or any other such spells. Any damage the spell grants can be healed by following rules in the sidebar about magical healing. Note: In any encounter in which a group would be able to use this spell, all members that are a level less than the Spell DC by half a level (round down) are assumed to be hit. If a creature is caught in the aura granted by this spell, it cannot attack you with melee or ranged attacks, and spellcasters that can cast fire, flame or lightning spells cannot do so against you. In addition, you may push the sphere of water away from yourself with your movement (within 5 feet of you) if it helps you escape a threat. Keep in mind, when creatures enter this realm of water, they deal damage in half and take as much damage as they deal as if they were hit by a water missile. Thus, while you might have a difficult time dealing with such a creature, its friends might not be so lucky… : Did you notice that text in between these lines? Yes! Believe it or not, we just saved you a half-level without sacrificing any more spell slots. Because that's where these script placement fields come into play. Between these lines you're actually creating a new spell instead of adding it to an already existing level. You might not be able to instantly cast them whenever you get the cue, but you'll be able to place the ability on an easily accessible spell list item, instead of having to fumble around for one that you know the spell's origin. For

For the last five years, the Hologram has been under attack, slaughtered by an army of aliens. Woner, a soldier and artificial intelligence, lost his twin brother Ten in the attack. Woner left Hologram to live a normal life with his wife and son, but ended up joining a paramilitary group called Starlight Squad. Ten's birthday is approaching, and for him, and millions of other children around the world, Woner knows that his brother will never get to grow up. He's going to find a way to change this. Funny thing, I have forgotten that I was going to try to make that announcement. There is a new trailer for Chaos Chronicles: God of War (which I have already seen some parts) coming out... But instead of one official trailer, there are 3 different ones! Stick with the "youtube description" and I think you will find it just the way you want it! Basically the first video is a 2 minutes gameplay trailer (totally possible to miss it, but that is the way I see it now). The second is a 3 minute long trailer (as it is a marketing thing) with a few screenshots to show the music and what to expect with the game. Finally, there is a 6 minute long teaser. I must say the music is not for me, but just because it's not the one I heard in the teaser above (it's a bit... Indie and I guess the music is not the best, but that's just a personal choice, I am very happy for the game and the idea but it didn't impress me, I mean, I would still buy it). Finally, here is the link to the first video: Ok I will post the link to the video 2 (the one with the 3 minutes trailer) and leave the other 2 for those who are interested in them. Those who are interested in the trailer : And finally, the full game trailer: Hope this
