Keyboard shortcuts in AutoCAD are: Press up and down arrows to move the cursor up and down by a given number of units (0.1 inch or 2.54 cm, for example). To move in a different direction, you must use the left and right arrows. Press the delete key to cut a selected object or free space, then place the cursor where you want the object to be. Press the backspace key to remove a selected object or space. Press the up arrow and down arrow keys to enter in the Zoom In and Zoom Out commands, respectively. Enter any values for 3D creation options in the right-click menu. Most commands require a command name to be typed; however, some commands do not. In these cases, you may enter values for required parameters. For example, if you select a 2D figure, you can type an arbitrary value for the Figure Height. If you select a 3D object, you can specify any of the 3D options shown below. Note that any value you enter will be the value you use throughout the design session.

Enable the Snap button to always create drawing snaps. Enable the Freeze button to force the selected objects to remain locked during dragging. Enable the Freeze 3D button to create drawing, scaling, and rotation snaps for a 3D object. If you have the Viewports toolbar open, you can access its various functions from the Tools menu. XSLT transformations ObjectARX works with the .NET framework and can be used in conjunction with XSLT transformations to perform cross-platform programming. Mapping ObjectARX supports mapping: the ability to create software that maps data to other data. This is commonly used for CAD file interchange. Implementation AutoCAD's programming base is ObjectARX. The .NET framework integration and interaction with COM was done via the Component Object Model (COM) and, more importantly, the Automation Factory pattern.
