Gallery.rar and independently add an unknown quantity that is expressed in terms of U (which is what we want). Note that this is different from previous expansions where the unknown quantity was added in terms of U^2 (what we want) and the remainder was expressed in terms of U (which we want but do not know). So, we begin: $v = \frac{U}{2\sqrt{x-1}}$ Let the remainder of this expression that does not depend on x be r : $r = \frac{U}{2\sqrt{x-1}} - \frac{U}{2\sqrt{x}} = \frac{U}{2\sqrt{x-1}} \left(\frac{1}{2\sqrt{x-1}} - \frac{1}{2\sqrt{x}} \right)$ Now, we can see that the remainder is exactly equal to $-\frac{U^2}{4x}$ since the brackets simplify to $\frac{1}{2}$. The only unknown term U on the right has been replaced by a quantity that depends on x . So, we can say that we now have an expansion in U as desired. It should be noted that there is still a normalization ambiguity for an expansion in U , and we still don't have an equation that represents our desired expansion. The ambiguity comes from the fact that we can write $r = -\frac{U^2}{4x}$ for any value of x ; we can write $r = -\frac{U^2}{4x} - \frac{U^2}{4x}$ and also $r = -\frac{U^2}{4x} - \frac{U^2}{4x} + \frac{U^2}{4x}$ and so on. So, we can always redefine our expansion with a different multiplier. This does mean that in principle we can get an expansion that is a valid power series in U but only after a particular choice of power series. But, if you are willing to make a choice of expansion that is valid for a particular application, then this is the way to do it. Using "non-hard" blood constituents and their relations to infectivity for the measurement of the persistence of blood-borne pathogens. Blood-borne pathogens have a very short persistence period in the blood (

Metabolism of the orally administered antibiotics cefuroxime and tetracycline in sheep. The metabolism of orally administered cefuroxime (CFN) and tetracycline (TC) was studied in four healthy adult sheep. As in the rat, CFN is preferentially demethylated and only a small amount of unchanged CFN is recovered in urine. In the sheep, hydroxylation of the antibiotic to form the 4-hydroxyphenylacetamide (4-HPA), which has been found to be excreted as a glucuronide in the urine of the rat and man, also is seen, indicating that it may be possible to predict the excretion pattern of CFN in man on the basis of data obtained in the sheep. 1996 World Junior Curling Championships The 1996 World Junior Curling Championships were held in Odense, Denmark from April 4-11.
