I am using xsl 2.0 and xml with php so I need to use variables. I have come across all these cases: grep indexOf strpos All of them are really nasty, none of them are nice. I also know I can use preg_match_all, but I don't think I need a regular expression to check if variable exists. How can I do it without using code like this: foobar barfoo Or this -1"> foobar barfoo And this

Jewish teens and their parents, are upset with a controversial new T-shirt that was created and designed to express the idea of Godless. ABC News reports that all across the U.S. the Anti-Defamation League (ADL) has been receiving feedback from parents whose children have received hate mail from classmates, and even from teachers, because of the T-shirt. The message on the T-shirt is, "I'm an Atheist, come on down!" The ADL states that the T-shirt is simply a parody meant to put "religious fundamentalism" to the test, but it's also sparked a dangerous school-to-prison pipeline that sends teenage atheists to jail, due to the "hate crime" designation. One of the teens who received the shirt, told ABC News, "My parents found it offensive so we decided to wear what we wore and not to say anything about it, as we are not all atheists and we do believe there is a God." Others, said, "We support the idea of being able to express your beliefs and not get punished for it."
