Nowadays I do play a lot of video games, although I only have about 3-4 console games. I used to work at a computer store when I was younger, I know how to repair, replace and do a lot of other things. My favorite game ever was on the NES the Legend of Zelda, I had that for probably the longest, and I also like Animal Crossing. I also like Galaxy Warriors, Shinobi 3 and RPG Classics like Final Fantasy and Chrono Trigger. I also like some of the Castlevania games. That was a long list, and I'm sure I forgot some. I was an avid reader growing up, and I still enjoy that. I'm trying to get back into it, and it's hard because I'm always doing work. Anything to help with that you need just let me know. I still look forward to your reviews. :) If you could only play one game for the rest of your life, what would it be? Or, which game would you want to be released for the first time on your favorite platform? For the first time, my choices would be Final Fantasy X and 9. What game of the past do you feel has influenced your taste in games? Some of the older games like the Final Fantasy series and the Secret of Mana. Why did you choose the following game? Portal because it has unique gameplay and it really pushed the genre into a new direction. What game of the past do you think should be rebooted, remade, or revisited? Final Fantasy IX. If you had the power to create a retro game, which game would you make? The original Secret of Mana. Your story: How

, a man who struts his stuff on his ATV. But in a back country that rarely gets heavy traffic, our joke is, 'who needs a bro?'" Townsend said, "that's a true statement, in fact, some friends of ours had an accident this past week and a friend of theirs a couple of days later. They both lost some limbs from their knees down and got on a motorcycle to get to the hospital. Another friend of ours from Traverse City lost his life and his son was sent to another hospital to have his hand repaired and the doctors said that he'll have both arms amputated." Another of Townsend's friends lost his eye in a hunting accident. Townsend said, "once again, my friends are not playing around. When people get hurt they need to get to a hospital. Every time I see someone on an ATV I think, 'Lord, have mercy.'" "We're not saying we're better than anyone else, but there's simply not an excuse to go out there at night, especially with alcohol involved," Townsend said. "If you are going out, you need to take your family. You can't depend on other people. Because, ultimately, other people get hurt. "It's almost a way of life that people go out in the first part of the day — a little post-workout for some of the boys. They've been at it since 3 a.m. and they just work on the last little bit of work, I guess, do anything you want and get home to have a BBQ. We just have a hard time wrapping our heads around that." Townsend called Kodiak a, "super nice place, a beautiful community. Our biggest problem is probably trying to keep an eye on people's alcohol. We're all human beings and we're all going to have the same bad decisions that we need to be corrected from." Townsend added, "and yes, we get stops, but we've got a great police department and I think everybody's doing a good job. I think people could do better, but I think everyone realizes if you drive drunk, you're going to get a ticket."
