Its common name in French is "petit papillon". Sometimes it is also called "elephant butterfly" (in French "petit papillon d'as" (from as a diminutive of petit as in petit pli  and as a feminine of the masculine "petit (little)"); "elephant butterfly" (from the shape of the body) is perhaps used more rarely, in a similar way that English speakers may say "lobster" for those with lobster tails rather than lobsters. This term is not widely used, however, and is not in common use outside North America. It is sometimes referred to as "the little blue butterfly". Some published works provide a generic name, "Panthera Seychellensis", but this is an incorrect transcription of the Latin adjective seychellensis, which is specifically referring to the Seychelles lycaenid butterfly (Eumaeus damocles, the "blue-spotted spotted" or "elephant butterfly"). What's new in GoD Factory: Wingmen:

"Hate Plus Original Soundtrack" is the twenty-fourth soundtrack album by AFI. It was released on September 14, 2008 through Varèse Sarabande with pre-orders available in November 2007. The album contains some pieces of five of the first games in the series: The original video game Hate Plus Plus and video game expansion material Unplugged; the other three are New Generation Hate Plus, Gen4 and Mosaic. The soundtrack, along with the game, was adapted by the sound director/composer, Rick Mathews, who performed the title track and includes his unique audio surrealism within the soundtrack. The soundtrack has been praised for its melodic and addictive compositions. The expansion design and production has also been picked up for presentation and technical compatibility. Background Hate Plus originally featured 5 tracks of music and 2 of useless sound effects and an ending animation. The idea to create the expansion, after the failure and positive reaction of The Final Stand, came when future lead singer Davey Havok first questioned what to do with their then canceled Homeworld HD project. The idea was then given to Graeme Norgate, to feature Homeworld composed for a second time. Most of the music was composed with the same team that created the Final Stand expansion, the design, creativity and most of the visual components went to the Blue Tongued Bond. Gameplay credits for the last five songs, including the main character, were bestowed to Losick Game Design. Gameplay elements were given to them through a letter and a reworked edition of The Final Stand. Last of all, a team from Focus Home Interactive - the publisher of both games created by Blue Tongued Bond and Big Huge Games - had contributed to it; new sounds were made and reworked by best recording, production and mixing in the company. Blue Tongued Bond then contributed the main theme, and one of the pieces out of the five pieces of music. Besides two tracks of the main theme, the soundtrack contains two pieces of previously released songs. Hizumi Hiyoshima's "Desert Ambience" was chosen and released in the first volume of the series' compilation album, compared by most fans to Hizumi's great work in the music video of AFI's single "Wild Card", Volume 1 soundtrack. The song was later released as a single without the series of The Final Stand as it already already was released in one of the first volumes of The Final Stand's compilation. The closing song
