

-- DESCRIPTION: Salad Fields is a DREAMYQUEER adventure-puzzle-game... or maybe more accurately, an experience. -- GAMEPLAY MODES: Salad Fields comes as 2 main game modes. We made both for different people: Puzzle Mode for people who don't mind certain amount of challenge, and Exploration Mode for people who prefer to take a walk through the puzzles and access the strange worlds that they hide. To learn more about the difference between the modes, take a look at our FAQ section. -- PRECISE CONTROLS: Don't worry if you don't know how to make basic controls, because Salad Fields' controls are very simple. -- SOUND: Also, don't worry about the music, either, as this game also has some sound effects, and also has a soundtrack. To find out more about the soundtrack, which is composed by jars, take a look at our NEWS section. -- LIGHT ROMANTIC THEME: We created this game with the fun of romantically daydreaming in mind. It's very bright, and colorful, and maybe a little bit silly at times. We hope that you can enjoy that! :3 -- PORTFOLIO: We have lots and lots of pictures, screenshots, videos, and other things that we made while making this game. You can see some of it here at our PORTFOLIO. :3 -- SUPPORT: As always, we try to make all of our work (especially the commercial ones) as accessible as possible, so you can ask for support anytime! :3 You can also get in touch with us if you have any questions, our support page. -- ABOUT US: All of us, except for Resni, who makes the games and sometimes draws pictures, are unshaved queer furies. -- INFO: Below you'll find some additional info about the game. Some of it might be fun to know, and some of it might not, but hey, this is a game and so it's allowed to be about both. (: (Y) = Year or (C) = Camera. [Extra 1] The year in which this game was released is :Y, but you are now playing with the "2014" edition of the game. The earlier version is sooo much better.

Is More: 2018 Presidents' Day This Day in History How will the 40th and 50th anniversaries of the March 19, 2018 Manchester (UK) Arena attack be viewed in a few years? Will there have been a similar attack, one on the scale of this one, just five years later? Will terrorism become the 21st century equivalent of smallpox, another constant threat? We cannot be confident of that, since little seems to change, despite years of various governments making promises they did not intend to keep. There were compromises, small things, some compromises too large and significant and which clearly were poorly thought out. Little, after the July 7, 2005 London bombings have changed, the Home Office's deterrent policy not just failing but seemingly forgotten. [Note, I wrote of the July 2005 attacks, and so too the one on November 13th, 2004.] It is well recognized that many Muslims and others without terrorist connections show sympathy with terrorism, even support: these unproblematic statements do not change the facts on the ground. The inescapable reality is that the security threat, from multiple sources or the ones singled out by Islam are as traditional as they have always been. Violent and not lethal solutions are possible, but depending on the circumstances, should they occur, not likely. At present, the vast majority of those suffering, directly and indirectly, from terrorism are Muslim, whether those who are victims from Bataclan or the rest of us who now have no choice but to pay taxes to our governments for their reproduction. The terrorism that one reads about is never as bad as it seems to be, whether one reads about the daily Hitlerian mass murders on the news or the anniversaries of 9/11, 7/7 and 7/7. Here's the day's events: 1790. The 60th annual meeting of the United States Congress begins. 1799. France is on the brink of revolution once again. 1815. Napoleon abdicates the French Empire and is banished to St. Helena. 1841. The British Parliament votes to repossess the 20 million pounds it lent to the Rothschilds, who promptly dissolve Parliament. 1857. Queen Victoria's eldest son, Albert, the Prince of Wales, marries Princess Alexandra of Denmark, and, later, Prussia. Prince Albert is the father of the present Prince of Wales, Charles Edward. 18
