The ultimate rhythm game where only YOU can decide how the beat goes! Guitar/voice/BASS/piano, musicianship, timing, and all the other elements of the classic rhythm genre are here, but you also get a full on visual environment in which the action comes to life! *Replay the story levels, count the apples on the fruit display, or take the beat to the next level by choosing a different song! All of the songs can be played in the different meters (triplets, 4/4, 4/5, 6/8, 7/8, or 9/16) Tsuke ga Kureta ("I want to ride a train"), Brofist, and Yamenuki: Over a year since our last update, we're really excited to be able to share a new song that we've added to the game! It's called Tsuke ga Kureta ("I want to ride a train"), and it's from One Thousand and One by Layla, a mix of rock and guitar. We're really happy to be able to share this, because we thought it was such a cool song that we wanted to be able to include it in a game! And the song isn't just for rhythm game fans! It's great to hear it strummed in the play pattern! We also really, really enjoyed adding this song, because it's from the One Thousand and One series, a series that we really like, with it's dreamy, magical feel! The arrangement that we chose is pretty much just the guitar strumming parts of the song, just in different meters. So we think that this song is perfect for the game, and we hope you enjoy it!
