The present invention is concerned with a means for delivering anaerobic bacteria to a bioreactor, such as the U.S. Bureau of Mines bioreactor used for the treatment of trichloroethylene, wherein the anaerobic bacteria are used to support denitrification in the bioreactor's denitrification zone. The U.S. Bureau of Mines' bioreactor for treatment of trichloroethylene (TCE) is a complex system including alternating layers of an inert material, the interior of which is coated with a high surface area material. The TCE bioreactor is a low-cost means of biological treatment of TCE, and the inert material is the media for growth of the anaerobic bacteria which remove carbon and nitrogen from the TCE. The above Bureau of Mines bioreactor system is described in U.S. Pat. Nos. 3
