Time On Frog Island [Win/Mac]

Objective: The heroes must pilot the Sun Dive Starship into the sun, retrieve the Proteus Drive and battle the xenos that seek to control it. The Captain must pilot through the sun without succumbing to the lethal temperatures. Structure: As players begin, they have their own action deck and a map of the dive area. The characters can walk around the map and check for encounters. Encounters are pre-placed in starting locations and can be moved to other locations during play. They can be given to characters for use as they wish. The players have their own deck for trading with NPCs and completing Story Task Challenges. They can buy items from shops. As events happen in the game, they are added to the main action deck. They are set up by the GM and can be amended by the GM and players as needed. After the event is resolved, the GM can attach the event text and the results of the event to the map, if desired. A GM can control the campaign and control over encounters. Various areas on the map, monsters, and shops can be placed by the GM, along with the cards used by the NPC to trade. The GM can also place treasure in the map to give to the players as they advance through the game. What's new:

fired up on this area, we decided to finally do some hard working in Thermo Dynamics! (NOTE: The below edit came after 8 months) Part 3 Now let's see what happened with Thermo Dynamics! Begin Recording! Thermo Dynamics Has Launched! We advanced so fast that the first one went down like this! Everything was awesome and perfect, except the fact that the entire gameplay was not of some variety - the core gameplay was just the same in each of the stations, that is why we decided to launch Thermo Dynamics as a sister site to Mechanical! We decided that we would add some more layers to the gameplay and make it more interesting to make it more appealing. Our New Site - Rocket Hustle So we began programming the gameplay, and soon the menu was set up! Not Bad, Right? - The Menu Has Perfected That was our first step, that was why we decided to move forward with the prototype we created, we made it look like this! That's It - No More Colours! After that all we were left with was the actual gameplay, we defined the gameplay as closely as we could, it was divided into 3 tiers; the tip, the trick, and the jackpot! We decided to add 3 more gears and marked each of them with a unique icon. We also added an additional item that the player can purchase: Lap Mag. Of Course, We Need to Create an HQ! Our HQ is the final piece we were missing here. We made it a simple yet effective. (click to expand) The final work was done once we launched the HQ. End of Quarter 1 As you know, that is how we cleared Quarter 1 on the Launch Party. This is an alien stage that most of you don't know about. As for the graphics, it was a lot of work for all of you to see on Quarter 1, however we did not leave on any wings. With more effort, I have no doubt it will be well received. Part 1 Just as always, we began by developing the Roving Enforcer. I am about 1 day short to finish the achievement. The Roving Enforcer Is Complete! Okay, enough is enough, let's keep moving forward. Today is Part
