Inspired by the Jules Vernes novel, Twenty thousand leagues under the sea. Professor Pierre Aronnax, his assistant Conseil and the harpoonist Ned Land are captured by Captain Nemo, who travels the world's oceans on board the Nautilus submarine. Although impressed by the beauty of the seabed, our three friends hope to escape and return to their lives on dry land. But Captain Nemo thinks otherwise... Can you help them escape? Discover the furthest recesses of the Nautilus, take the helm and pass through the Isthmus of Suez, gaze upon hitherto unseen places under the waves! But beware, the apparently peaceful depths can hide terrible dangers! 34 sites to see Mini games: reproduce manoeuvres, read a map, find a secret code... I have successfully set the text of all my text views to be Blue, however when my tableView.cellForRowAtIndexPath: method is called, this row is always grey in color. How do I set this row's text color to be blue? The flow of my app looks like this: When my main screen (UITableViewController) is presented, a list is loaded from an array. When an item is selected in the table, it is loaded into a detailViewController I have set my text views to blue in the cellForRowAtIndexPath: method, which is called when I load the list of items. I then create a detail view controller that has a tableView within its viewControllers. So when I select a row, it goes to the detail view. However, in the viewDidLoad method of this viewController, the colour of the row is still grey. I have connected the detailViewController with my storyboard to
