New skins are coming to The Sims 4 as part of The Sims 4 Cats and Dogs expansion pack. Check out these new screenshots of the new cat and dog body types, and the updated look of towns, The Sims 4 Cats and Dogs is available now on Steam for Windows and PC. In an effort to return The Sims to their previous simplicity, The Sims 4 Cats and Dogs is based around the idea of neighborhood functions rather than individual needs. This means you'll spend your sim's days at work, doing chores around the house, volunteering, or playing with your pets. These activities will help your sim make money and progress through the neighborhood, and they'll also have "compatible" or "compatible with" needs. When your sim works with a compatible need, they'll automatically share that need and viceversa. Many of the new, compatible needs will be based around the profession of a homeowner, but you'll also be able to have your sim come home from work or school to play with their kids. The Sims 4 Cats and Dogs is available now for PC on Steam, and the game will support crossplay between Windows, macOS, and Linux. For more on The Sims 4 Cats and Dogs, check out its gameplay trailer, out now on Steam. The Sims 4 Cats and Dogs arrives this fall alongside the rest of The Sims 4's life-long expansion packs. In The Sims 4 Cats and Dogs, help your cat and dog impress the neighborhood by planting a beautiful flower garden, feeding neighborhood pets, and more. Homeowners will have a new profession based around grooming, tailoring, and other housekeeping activities. They'll make a lot of money from their home by selling their adorable pet furs or custom cat and dog items at the store. You'll also get to play with a new dog-specific expansion pack that you can find on the Store, if you'd prefer to play with this expansion pack now.
