» Description Roblox is a customisable and interactive third-person platform game for the web and other platforms. The Roblox games, created in Lua, are produced by third-party game developers and the user base. Roblox was created by Roblox Corporation, a publicly traded company based in San Mateo, California. The first application of the Roblox platform was the video game "Tetris Cafe", a Tetris-inspired game, which was released in December 2004. In July 2004, the Roblox Corporation had 36 employees and offered a 7-day refund policy to any user dissatisfied with a game. The name of the company is a portmanteau of "robots" and "blockbuster". In its early stages, Roblox was originally named "ObjectCreate" and was meant to feature sculptures and other building-oriented features, like Lego.

In its first year of business, Roblox had made 6 games under its original ObjectCreate brand. These games had a total of around 27,000 users at their release. The name was changed to "Roblox" in early 2007, hoping to differentiate itself from its competitor, Second Life. The name "Roblox" also implies a common use for both playing and building. In the third quarter of 2015, Roblox reached over 200 million monthly active users. In the first quarter of 2017, these users generated over 300 million requests for content, of which more than 300,000 were estimated to be copyrighted. Roblox has collected over $1.1 billion in sales since 2012. In 2018, Roblox began integrating Google's Material Design and Google Maps into the games created on the platform. Roblox is free to play, but offers in-game purchases and a premium platform. The platform can be accessed through either mobile or desktop web browsers. Roblox can be downloaded onto iOS and Android devices, Windows computers, the Web, and any HTML5 enabled device with a web browser, including most televisions and game consoles. » Description ROBLOX is a virtual construction game played within a 3D sandbox environment. Players control humanoid robots that can build anything placed into the environment. Most of the game's buildings are designed to be modular, so that children can create simple machines or progressively-complex machines. Players can also interact with nearby
