Through the Corporate Tracker project, Colombia provides private sector companies with the tools and the means to achieve their commitment to the SDGs. After the implementation of the Corporate Tracker, collaboration between stakeholders has increased, contributing to the dissemination of the private sector's record of contribution to the SDGs. The Corporate Tracker consists of a competitive database for Colombia's largest and medium-sized companies. The database includes information on corporate purpose and SDG implementation as well as a benchmark for SDG conformance. Each company's SDG performance is compared to all other companies and is published on the corporate website. One of the goals of the Corporate Tracker is to promote the visibility of responsible companies in the Colombian economy. Two aspects that were most relevant and useful to companies to implement the Corporate Tracker were that the access to their Annual Reports, as well as the provision of training. Additionally, the implementation of the Corporate Tracker with small and medium-sized companies is of particular relevance because they are mostly among the sectors that aim to attain the SDG; they are not usually very big companies. For the implementation of the Corporate Tracker, UNDP - the Colombian Government and the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation collaborated with the private sector and with NGOs to develop content and a framework that supported the implementation of the Corporate Tracker. The Corporate Tracker was launched in October 2018 at the occasion of the 7th Round Table on Business & Environment Leadership and the 17th Colombia CSO Forum. The Corporate Tracker went through three phases.
