I had another look at the tests of the LU 200 with the new add-on, and I was pretty satisfied with the results. The AI-articulated buses now look and sound more realistic than before, for starters. The crazy courses around the Underground station today at Köprülü stop (where the AI buses often caught in between two trains, resulting in a lot of frantic fast maneuvers) is extremely fun to drive (with a fuel consumption that's higher than the same route in the normal version of OMSI 2, which got my game camera pretty warm), but they also have a reduced capacity, so they can only pull up to 40-50 passengers, instead of 80+ they could pull in the older version of OMSI 2. The AI bus also looks a lot more complete than before, and seems to generally behave better. I'm not even sure if the AI is the same, because at one point I had the AI drive up to my house, and just before the last stop, it turned the corner down the street with no passengers. I also noticed some problems with the laser scan, because the autopilot also appears to be calculating a lot more turn radius than before, resulting in some pretty wild turns and adjustments. The only issue I still have is that sometimes the buses seem a bit disoriented, as if the AI (or the OMSI.exe) doesn't know where they are, so the turn radius seems a bit larger than it should be. Other than that, though, the LU 200 with the new OMSI 2 Add-on AI-Articulated Bus for Vienna is pretty much ready to go. It was definitely a lot of fun driving around and meeting all the passengers in the buses, though. Definitely recommended! If you have any questions, let me know. 5ec8ef588b
