If you intend to use windows fonts for Scribus, you should do so before building Scribus. However, note that the font selection routine provided by Scribus itself only works with the default windows fonts, so this doesn't provide all the capabilities of a typical operating system fonts dialog. A working solution which is compatible with the window theme (which some people want) can be found here: <https://bitbucket.sh> target=_blank - However, add_fonts.sh is not available for Windows. Please refer to the Nmap's WinPopup and WinTaskbar Not Working section for other solutions. Under the hood, Scribus is written in C++. Therefore, in order to increase the speed of development and testing, we are using a software called "Cppcheck". There have been two versions of Cppcheck available, one for Linux/Mac/Solaris and the other one for Windows. Recent version of Cppcheck is able to be invoked with the configuration file located at the install/gcc.sh script. Since Scribus was originally a Macintosh-only app, we always used "mac-gcc". Recently, the Win-gcc was written to work with the "configure" script of "automake", "autoconf", etc. And it passes the test on Cppcheck. To use Scribus, your system must have a working Qt4 installation. Qt4 can be downloaded from the Nokia Qt site, the GNU Win32 site, or from MacPorts. The Scribus getting started guide points you to a good reference, and the Qt4 Getting Started Guide is the quickest way to get started with Qt4. Scribus will run with Qt4 1.0 through 4.0, and Qt5. To install Qt5, your system must be running the newer version of Windows XP, Vista, Windows 7, or Windows 8. If your system does not meet these requirements, see the
