Is there any other way? A: Setting $5x+x^2-x^4 = 5u$ gives you $$\frac{\sin x}{5u}\int \frac{du}{1+\frac{1}{u^2}}$$ Then replace u with $1/u$. In macaques vaccinated with granulocyte macrophage colony-stimulating factor (GM-CSF), there is a temporary oversuppression of ovarian follicular development. Inhibition of the follicular phase lasts about 6 months, and if the vaccination is done during the luteal phase the effect is long-lasting. Although vaccination may be an effective and safe tool for infertility control, its mechanism of action has not yet been elucidated. It has been proposed that the suppression of ovarian function is mainly due to a direct effect of the antibody titer on the expression of the follicle-stimulating hormone receptor by ovarian granulosa cells.
