At first time when I put map into the game the application was stopped working (for very short period of time) and was throwing this exception message: The generic error handler for "Win32 API" version "*" had a bad exception for thread " " Win32Exception: The system cannot find the file specified. " I don't want to use error reporting (however I need to). So, I need to catch this error only. I looked on Google a lot, but couldn't find a solution. How can I solve this issue? A: This problem is related to the information displayed in the Error Log. When there is a problem that requires the user to wait (such as reading from a file, or waiting for a task to complete) the system logs the progress to the error log. The user can view the error log to see the progress. The exception that you received can be logged by the system if it exceeds a certain limit. The system keeps the progress information for 5 minutes. Try running the application again and see if there is an error in the log. What I would suggest is that you add some code that displays the error to a message box if there is an error in the log and that you create a separate log to display the errors. Update
