Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a medical image reading apparatus and a medical image processing apparatus. 2. Description of the Related Art There have been devised various types of medical image processing apparatuses which are constructed by utilizing image data of a medical image obtained by a medical image generating apparatus such as an X-ray CT (computed tomography) apparatus or the like. The medical image processing apparatuses can perform various types of image processing on medical image data obtained by such medical image generating apparatuses to display the processed medical image on a display apparatus such as a CRT display or the like, and record the displayed medical image. For example, Japanese Unexamined Patent Publication No. 2002-333075 discloses a medical image processing apparatus which is constructed by utilizing an SID (Serial Interface Digital) communication protocol. This type of medical image processing apparatus is constructed by utilizing a mechanism which allows a host computer to communicate with a display apparatus via an SID communication line, and permits a display apparatus to read out image data which are outputted from a medical image generating apparatus and are stored in a storage device in the display apparatus. In addition, there have been known other types of medical image processing apparatuses which are constructed by utilizing a communication protocol such as an RS232C (RS232 Control) communication protocol. The medical image processing apparatus which is constructed by utilizing the RS232C communication protocol includes a receiving device which receives data of a medical image and converts it into a suitable format, and a transmitting device which transfers the medical image data to a display apparatus. However, the medical image processing apparatus which is constructed by utilizing the RS232C communication protocol is only capable of transmitting the medical image data from the medical image generating apparatus. Therefore, in order to implement a
